"I trust my friend Jeff Westeinde because he has proven and lived up to his word, his commitments as well as his pro-active engagement to dream and vision with our people more than my expectations. I trust his team and I trust every member of the Anishinabe Women's Council with all the work that they have put together in action, deed and good will for the benefit of positive opportunity to benefit supporters of Zibi and non-supporters as well. This throughout all the rocks and knives that were thrown at them for whatever reason. They endured insult after insult from the beginning and if today they choose to respond at times not to the liking of people who started the rock throwing in the first place well all I can say they earned the right to speak their mind."

Well I will be on my way home shortly. Lots to think about on the way home but the days work is partly completed. There were a lot of views expressed to me on the falls and Zibi at work today and from the many phone calls I received. I was asked a couple of times why I support Zibi and I simply replied that in a short time my true reasons will be exposed.

There are a lot of people who have not spoken yet and I am one of them with good reason and with a valid purpose for our people's future and long term mutual objectives for The National Capital Region and our National Identity within the heart of Our Territory in Canada. An identity, history, spiritual belief system ceremonial practice and a voice of concern only we Anishinabe people have a right to speak to in full respect.

I trust my friend Jeff Westeinde because he has proven and lived up to his word, his commitments as well as his pro-active engagement to dream and vision with our people more than my expectations. I trust his team and I trust every member of the Anishinabe Women's Council with all the work that they have put together in action, deed and good will for the benefit of positive opportunity to benefit supporters of Zibi and non-supporters as well. This throughout all the rocks and knives that were thrown at them for whatever reason. They endured insult after insult from the beginning and if today they choose to respond at times not to the liking of people who started the rock throwing in the first place well all I can say they earned the right to speak their mind.

I remember not too long ago asking a person who I thought was a friend of mine, "do you think that freeing the falls is the priority issue in our lives?" He didn't really know what to answer. To me freeing the falls is not the priority issue although I know the issues surrounding this historical place. Freeing the people and giving them opportunity for a better life is and I will defend the vision that my people have entered into with Windmill.

So take your best shot at me if you don't agree but I will be there to advance what needs to be advanced. I will do so in good will and I will respond in a non-violent manner at all times. In short that is what I have to say today, tomorrow is another day and the day after that, another.

With good intent, Megwech. Only the Anishinabe can speak for the Anisinabe their right to nationhood, territory and prophecies.
